Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 27 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cloud and showery rain, heavy at times, spreading north overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Initially dry with sunny spells. However, a band of cloud and heavy showers will spread northwards during the late evening. Rain gradually easing later in the night. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Monday:
Rain easing through the morning to leave a largely dry but cloudy day, with fog lingering across the Derbyshire Peaks. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Generally rather cloudy, particularly in the mornings with sunny spells possible in the afternoons. Outbreaks of drizzle possible most mornings, with a chance of some showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.